Attention Executive officer,

My name is Shay Yohanan. I am a practicing OT and have held license since it's origination in 2002. At that time I incurred an offense on my license which was not related to patient care or practicing as an Occupational Therapist. I completed and met all requirements in 2006. I was recently offered a job as a Care Coordinator for a healthcare company but was denied based on a disciplinary action that showed up on my background check. I do not have a criminal record and have not had any disciplinary action since 2002 but according to the laws this disciplinary action will remain on OT website forever.

I was wondering if you would please share with your board members at the next board meeting the possibility of removing from view after a certain amount of time has gone by this sensitive information that cost me a very good job.

I was thinking about a 25 year old person who may have had a little bit too much fun at a Christmas party and was issued a DUI who will most likely continue to work until approximately 70 years of age. 45 years this disciplinary action will follow this person who most likely will never have another offense. I wish the board would consider changing there rules.

Even in criminal cases a person may be granted the right to clear their record. It seems it should be possible for the OT board as well.
